

There'll Be No Shadows

Lewis Edgar Jones, 1903

Lewis Edgar Jones

$\text{♩} = 92$

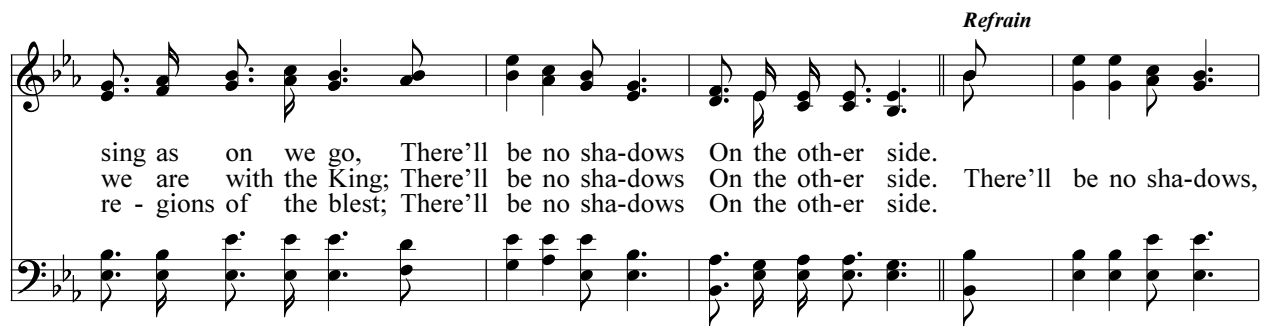

1. Tho' dark the path my feet may tread, It is a joy to know There'll
2. Life's bright-est day may have its clouds, But still our hearts should sing, There'll
3. We're march-ing home-ward to a land Where wea-ry feet may rest; There'll be no sha-dows On the oth-er side; We should not fear the wild-est storm, But be no sha-dows On the oth-er side; 'Twill not be long till cares are o'er And be no sha-dows On the oth-er side; No pain or sor-row e'er can touch The sing as on we go, There'll be no sha-dows On the oth-er side. we are with the King; There'll be no sha-dows On the oth-er side. There'll be no sha-dows, re-gions of the blest; There'll be no sha-dows On the oth-er side.

Refrain

no sha-dows, Je-sus is the sun-shine of that land so fair; There'll be no sha-dows, there will be no sha-dows, no sha-dows, Pain and death can nev-er en-ter there.

there will be no sha-dows, nev-er en-ter there.